

Lactating/Nursing Mother Rooms

South Plains College supports a woman's choice to breastfeed as it benefits the family, the employer and society. Multiple studies have indicated that breastfed babies and their mothers are healthier and may have fewer health problems later in life.

These campuses have met the standards set by the state to provide a private space, flexible break scheduling and support for mothers who choose to express milk for their babies. Nursing mother rooms are available on all SPC campuses for students, faculty and staff to utilize as needed. These rooms provide a safe, quiet, and private space to express milk.

Please contact the office at your location to schedule use of the room ahead of time:
